

Fressa the Cat Submitted by Donna Covington, Dynamite® Distributor, CO

"This is Fressa, at the age of 15. I got her 5 years ago with her medical records. She had had urinary tract infections every round of yearly shots. So she no longer gets shots. The last year before I got her she had had 5 urinary tract infections with loads of antibiotics. She was a very stressed kitty in the home she was in at the time and it showed.

I put her on all organic foods and Purrrformance and filtered water with Elixir. About 4 weeks after I got her she began to detox from all her medicine so, with my upline persons help I slowly added different Dyamite products to a wet food. She came through this period with flying colors and has flown ever since. She has a haven here on earth as long as she can have a quality life. Thanks to Dynamite products that will be a long time."

To above: A photo of Margarita, the female who calmed down so nicely after switching to the Dynamite Alpaca Feed, with Ananda, the day Ananda was born.

"Two weeks after switching my alpacas to Dynamite Alpaca Feed, I noticed measurable changes in my herd. Animals who had lost the fiber on the bridge of their noses were now re-growing that fiber, and it was filling in fast! One of my pregnant females, who had been very cranky and unapproachable, was now much calmer, and was no longer approaching her pellet bowl with the "desperation" she had been exhibiting. Although she was still excited at the arrival of her pellet bowl (it's an "alpaca thing"), she would now allow me to get inside the gate and get the bowl on the ground for her, instead of almost attacking me as I approached the gate! Clearly, something was missing before, and she needed it badly. Along with the obvious nutritional benefits my animals are enjoying, I know that I'm feeding them "safe" food, from a mill that does not use or store potentially harmful chemicals or drugs."

To the right: A photo of the new babies that were born September 19th and 20th. We have two new female crias, the first progeny of our herdsire, Marcus. The fawn girl is Ananda (pronounced Ah-NAHN-dah) and the white girl is Angelina. Ananda was born Friday, and Angelina was born Saturday. It was a busy weekend!
